

Georgia Meth Project hosts forum at Public Library

May 27, 2010

COLUMBUS, GA - Thursday the Georgia Meth Project hosted a regional public forum at the Columbus Public Library in Columbus, GA.

Executive Director Jim Langford talked to local families, law enforcement officers and public officials about the Georgia Meth Project prevention campaign, as well as issues related to methamphetamine abuse.

The goal of the Georgia Meth Project is to significantly reduce methamphetamine use in the state, and address the social and economic burden caused by Meth use in Georgia.

For more information, visit www.georgiamethproject.org.